WEDDING PARTY FLOWERS

Wedding party flowers are for the bride, groom, bridesmaids, groomsmen and other significant participants in the wedding. You may want to consider small floral tokens for family members, flower girls and pageboys.

You may already know exactly what you are after. If not, here are some things to consider:

- start by considering the overall theme and location of your wedding - this may lend itself to a particular floral style;
- what style of bouquet do you like? Are you looking for a single flower en masse (such as all roses) or a larger unstructured bouquet?;
- do you want the bridesmaids to have a similar style to the bridal bouquet or something a little different?

Your personal flowers will be delivered when you are getting ready so that they can be used in photos taken before the ceremony.

CEREMONY FLOWERS

Ceremony flowers give you the opportunity to create a beautiful space to say "i do"!

You could consider:

- flowers for an arbour;
- free standing flower towers;
- grounded nest; or
- arrangements to sit in urns or on pedestals.

You can also design a beautiful aisle with grounded arrangements or create an entrance with floral arrangements at the start of the aisle.

Finish the ceremony with a celebration of confetti petals. A fun tradition and beautiful for photos.

RECEPTION FLOWERS

Beautiful flowers can create an amazing atmosphere for your reception. Some things you might want to consider: the room set-up, the shape of the tables and the different areas you want to make focal points such as the wedding party table, welcome sign and cake.

Create a beautiful space with a mixture of arrangements, foliage, vases and candles.

Have you considered repurposing your ceremony flowers? It is possible to repurpose some of the flowers from your ceremony. For example, a grounded nest, arrangement or urn can easily be moved to your reception. The ability to repurpose flowers depends on the location of the ceremony and arrangements/installations you choose.

A romantic wedding photograph taken from behind the bride. She is holding a large, vibrant bouquet of flowers, including pink peonies, red roses, and white orchids. Her hands are visible, adorned with a diamond ring and a gold charm. A groom's hand is gently resting on top of hers. The background is a soft-focus green, suggesting an outdoor setting.
